Unscored side on the top toward the rim is striated horizontally + fairly well smoothed. However, below ~~at~~ the striated area, it's ^{striated} rough + not wiped w/ the same cloth or material that made it by the rim. Much more pitted + the larger inclusions of the paste are exposed. The rim isn't exactly rounded... it's relatively smooth + not rough, but it does seem to have an edge on the unscored side. The scored

Side appears to still have burnt material attached to it. When it's touched, dark charcoal comes off. The scoring is very deep in some places & kind of more shallow near the rim. Only horizontal scoring marks are near the rim... vertical scoring lines are further away from the rim, closer to where the edge of fragment broke.
